Helping you flourish

Promoting a culture of excellence and ensuring a sense of belonging. At Wellington Point we help you build and strengthen your character.

Our dedicated Welfare Program ensures that positive psychology underpins our innovative holistic well being program. We enable you to build resilience by identifying and exploring your individual key strengths and attributes. What you may not know is the wellbeing that comes from discovering these character strengths, ones you already have and ones you can develop.

Here's how it's done

We help you find the joy in your school life by teaching you optimism (positivity). We will engage you in your learning, we will show you how to build your relationships – with your friends, your peers, your teachers – so this comes naturally to you throughout your life. We will help you understand that meaning in life comes with belonging to something and in serving something bigger than ourselves. We will show you how to become tenacious and, from that, accomplished. We will help you master what you are challenged by, whether it's playing an instrument or scoring goals, higher mathematics or simply expressing yourself artistically. That's how we teach wellbeing at Wellington Point and from there, learning becomes easier because strength of character underpins achievement.

Feels like House spirit

Houses at Wellington Point are communities of students within the whole school community that offer a supportive and collaborative environment outside the classroom. The house system operates across the school and all of the students take on their particular house activities with loyalty and camaraderie, developing a strong sense of belonging and great affection for their own houses.

*I love to wonder
I want to understand.*

Wellington Point is a vibrant and nurturing place in which to grow and learn. When your child begins high school they bring with them an enchanting blend of wonder and enthusiasm. We support them, encourage them and challenge them at every step of their learning journey.

The Junior School academic programs aim to inspire creativity and curiosity in young minds. Your child will be excited by learning and will deepen their knowledge and understanding through problem solving. They will learn it's OK to make mistakes because they're learning all the time. They'll investigate, collaborate, communicate and reflect. These are the 21st century skills every employer is after – how to think outside the box, how to work well with others – and these skills will become second nature to them.
